WORKING FOR MANSFIELD

■ Mansfield Conservatives have launched a new campaign called 'Working for Mansfield'.

The new campaign aims to give the people of Mansfield a true voice in local and national policy areas.

Our new campaign offers many new opportunities for you, to express your opinion on key issues:

- Take part in our surveys
- Attend our 'Politics and a Pint' events
- Easy contact with Mansfield Conservatives
- A return to contact newsletters for all who sign up

Mike Reynolds said "The new Working for Mansfield campaign allows the people of Mansfield to have a true say in local and national policy issues. The Mansfield Conservative want to listen to your views, whatever they may be".

Come along to our next Politics and a Pint event on Thursday 23rd October to discuss immigration (see next page for further details).

We want to know if you have any ideas for us that you may want to discuss. Your opinion matters! Email us and tell us what you think!

MEP VISITS MANSFIELD

■ Emma McClarkin, Conservative MEP, came to Mansfield to visit the Rebecca Adlington Swimming Centre and Forest Town cycle track.

After speaking with members of the public and party members about the great event that will come to Britain later this year: the Olympics, Emma toured the Rebecca Adlington Swimming Centre and explored future opportunities for the Forest Town cycle track.

MANSFIELD MEMBERS MEET BORIS JOHNSON

■ Earlier this year, Mansfield Conservatives and Conservative Future members went to Conservative Campaign Head Quarters to telephone canvass for the London Mayoral elections and to meet Boris Johnson.

Along with other members from associations from across the East Midlands region, members from Mansfield Conservatives and Conservative Future headed to London to join the Back Boris campaign by telephone canvassing at CCHQ.

Telephone canvassers discussed Boris' nine point plan which included:

1. Cut council tax by 10%
2. Create 200 000 new jobs

3. 1000 more police on the street
4. Restore green space in London
5. Invest £221 million in High Streets
6. Ensure a true Olympic legacy

After telephone canvassing, members had lunch and met Boris Johnson. They had a chance to take their own photos and talk to Boris. One member described the event as a "great chance to meet some of the best politicians around". Another said that it was "Great to meet such a brilliant guy like Boris".

The Conservative Party often holds trips to various points across the UK to allow members to help other associations and meet politicians from across the UK.
